

Help! What subjects should I choose?

Your subject choices can have an impact on what you may study at college or university or when applying for jobs. You may have a lot of questions .....

Which subjects do you enjoy?

Does the time seem to fly by in some subjects and go at a snail's pace in others?

Which subjects are you good at?

Which subjects do you get consistently good results in? Are there some subjects that your friends struggle with but you find easy? And vice versa.

Which subjects suit your learning style?

Do you like English and RMPS because you like writing and get to talk and listen? Or perhaps you like Design and Manufacture or Hospitality because you can get stuck in and learn with your hands? Do you like maths because you enjoy problem solving? Understanding how you like to learn can help you to choose the right subjects.

Which subjects are going to help you in the future?

Do you have an idea of what you'd like to do after you finish school?

How can you find out what subjects you need for a career you are interested in?

My World of Work can help you find out the subjects and qualifications you'll need for different careers.

Top Tips

Avoid picking subjects just because...

You like the teacher – the teacher may change.

There isn't much homework – that will change!

Your friends are taking the subject – just because your friend likes it doesn't mean you will!

You think it's a boy's subject or a girl's subject – there's no such thing.

Speak to your teachers, a careers adviser and your family. They might have some ideas about what subjects would suit you.

Find out more about each subject, particularly those new ones that you might be picking up.

Make a checklist for each subject. The subjects with the most ticks are the ones to choose.

Do you enjoy it?

Are you good at it?

Does it suit your learning style?

Will it help with your career plans?
